

Doctrinal Myths

1. Myths about doctrine:

- Myth One: Doctrine divides.

Answer. In one sense this is true. Doctrine divides the truth from the false, and the frivolous from the sincere.

- Myth Two: Doctrine is not important.

Answer. Doctrine is vital to faith. Without doctrine there would be no Christian church for there would be no teaching about the virgin birth, the death of Christ, the atonement, the resurrection, the second coming, etc.

- Myth Three: Love is more important than doctrine.

Answer. The most loving act in the entire world is to set forth the doctrines of grace: TULIP.

- Myth Four: It does not matter what one believes as long as they are sincere in their religion.

Answer. Sincerity is not enough. A person can be sincerely wrong with deadly effects. People die when wrong medicine is prescribed or administered. No matter how sincere a person may be in their religion Christ is the Way, the Truth and the Life and no one will ever come to the Father except by Him.

- Myth Five: Doctrine is boring and difficult to learn.

Answer. Doctrine is not meant to be either boring or difficult. It does require effort to learn and remember, but then, anything in life worth while also takes time to learn.

- Myth Six: Doctrine is not practical.

Answer. All doctrine is meant to be practical and all practice should be doctrinal. How one lives out the ethics of the Christian life will be based on doctrinal considerations. Legal considerations, marital questions, ethical questions about the right to life and a thousand other everyday practices reminds us that a doctrinal foundation is needed.
