

Doctrine of Pseudo Physical Healing

General Principles

1. There is a dramatic distinction between the body and the spirit. Technically this is known in philosophy as dualism. The body uses the senses to receive knowledge: touch, sight, smell, hearing and taste. In contrast the spirit is believed to be taught knowledge by divine revelation.
2. The body is subject to suggestions from the mind including that which is evil or injurious to it. If a person thinks of having a heart attack or being stricken with a particular illness consciously or subconsciously the body will be affected and the disease will appear.
3. Physical healing comes when the power of the mind is asserted over the body. The mind is master, not the body.
4. Physical healing comes when faith is placed in the person giving assurance of healing. As a child is comforted when the mother tells it the pain will go away so disease and sickness goes away when the mind believes there is healing.
5. Physical healing comes when faith is not placed in doctors, or medicines, or the opinions of those who are well for they are all wrong. Healing comes not by denying the pain but exposing the source of the pain which is an illusion. Once this concept is accepted then the illusion can be vanished.
6. Physical healing comes when the ideal of disease and sickness is not allowed to have a presence of reality. By a positive confession of being healed based on strong faith, and by holding in the mind a mental imaging of health, the disease is vanquished and the body is healed.
7. Disease is an error of the mind, and not a real thing.
8. Physical healing comes by the knowledge of the wisdom that gives man the control of his body, and the understanding of which produces health and happiness. This knowledge eliminates fear. The loss of fear removes many of the sources of sickness such as stress which induces high blood pressure etc.
9. Health and happiness comes by having faith it is the perfect will of God for individuals to be in good health and free of pain. As a parent does not want a child to suffer, so God does not want His children to suffer.
10. How did Jesus heal people without medicine or surgery?

11. Those who embrace the metaphysical New Thought are convinced Jesus healed by the people He ministered to having faith in the power of faith, and in the words He spoke for these were words of hope, words that affirmed wholeness, words that confessed health, words that told people to believe in God, words that invited people to believe God did not want them to be ill.
12. Christians must be careful not be deceived by the teachings of the pseudo healers.
